SUBJECT DESCRIPTION

The subject of Didactics of English Language aims at teaching students different existing methodologies in the teaching of foreign languages knowing how to discern the positive and negative characteristics of each of them. The future teachers must master the different didactic resources and methodological strategies, knowing how to use the most appropriate ones for different teaching contexts. Likewise, we will study the competences, objectives and different techniques and instruments in the evaluation processes in order to be able to develop coherent and appropriate didactic units for each level.

We will place special emphasis on the teaching and evaluation of critical thinking skills (Critical Thinking) and emotional intelligence (intercultural empathy) within the field of ethics and social responsibility, in order to promote an education in humanistic values, integral, person- centered.

GOAL

The main objective of this subject is that the student knows the different methodological strategies, didactic resources and evaluation tools in the teaching of English as a foreign language, knowing how to discern the positive and negative characteristics of each of them. It also aims to provide students with the skills that enable the use of this knowledge and tools to give structured, motivating and high quality lessons.

The future teachers must be able to put into practice this theoretical knowledge, creating coherent teaching units with the level of the students in each formative stage, taking into account the diversity and the needs in the classroom. Likewise, emphasis will be placed on intercultural interaction, emotional Intelligence (intercultural empathy) and the promotion of an education in humanistic values, in the field of ethics and social responsibility, within a comprehensive person-centered approach in education.

PRIOR KNOWLEDGE

Students must prove proficiency in the foreign language (English) equivalent to level B1 of the Common European Framework of Reference for languages, in accordance with Recommendation nr (98) 6 of the Committee of Ministers of Member States of 17 October 2000

EDUCATION ACTIVITIES

Firstly, there will be lectures to explain the theoretical aspects and the activities programmed throughout the different sessions.

Students will perform a class session (Mock Class- 20 min) in which they will put into practice the different methodologies seen in units 1-2 and 3

MOCK CLASS PRESENTATION:

The purpose of this activity is to give a mini-class (20 minutes long) incorporating teaching resources seen in class (or those of your own) trying to be creative, innovative, motivating and interactive with your “students”.

Please follow the following steps:

1. -Introduce the class
2. -present the activity (activities)
3. -give instructions to complete the task-s
4. -monitor, correct and supervise “your students”
5. - finish the class

The sessions will be recorded, projected and commented in class

After the Mock Class, students must submit a Good Practices Dossier. This Dossier will consist of:

- script followed in the presentation (lesson plan)
- Materials used in the preparation of the session
- Class presentation (powerpoint) and support materials used during the session

In addition to the oral presentation of a classroom simulation, students will also develop an autonomous methodology, having readings and activities on the virtual campus with which to prepare and deepen the subject. The teacher, meanwhile, will support the work of students with face-to-face or virtual tutorials.

We will be working using a cooperative methodology to encourage interpersonal relationships among the students in our classroom, provide contrast of opinion and contribute to reach optimal choices. We will also develop the Flipped classroom methodology of teaching to provide a dynamic and further a collaborative environment with the aim of enhancing interaction among students and encourage creativity.

Teaching activities and work time distribution may be subject to changes, depending on legislation and advice issued by the pertinent health and education authorities.
