SKILLS

Basic Skills

Students must have demonstrated knowledge and understanding in an area of study that is founded on general secondary education. Moreover, the area of study is typically at a level that includes certain aspects implying knowledge at the forefront of its field of study, albeit supported by advanced textbooks

Students must be able to apply their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional manner and possess skills that can typically be demonstrated by coming up with and sustaining arguments and solving problems within their field of study

Students must have the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (usually within their field of study) in order to make judgments that include reflections on pertinent social, scientific or ethical issues

Students must be able to convey information, ideas, problems and solutions to both an expert and non-expert audience

Students must have developed the learning skills needed to undertake further study with a high degree of independence

General Skills

To develop the skill of responsible, critical, reflective, analytical and synthetic thought.

To analyse and summarise the main ideas and contents of all types of texts, discover their theories and the issues they pose and critically judge their form and contents in terms of both the texts and the underlying rhetoric.

Specific skills

To be able to analyse the meaning and basis of human dignity, the basic elements of mankind, the evolution of the different anthropologies over history and their practical implications on the sector.

To identify and appreciate the metaphysical and anthropological essence of ethics and to define moral experience, its specific nature and its essential characteristics.
