SUBJECT DESCRIPTION

In the End-of-degree Project, which concludes the curriculum of all official degrees, students must demonstrate a comprehensive acquisition of the skills and the training contents of the Degree. It is an individual project, in which students should apply the general skills associated with the qualification, supervised by a tutor assigned by the Degree Director of Studies.

SKILLS

Basic Skills

Students must have demonstrated knowledge and understanding in an area of study that is founded on general secondary education. Moreover, the area of study is typically at a level that includes certain aspects implying knowledge at the forefront of its field of study, albeit supported by advanced textbooks

Students must be able to apply their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional manner and possess skills that can typically be demonstrated by coming up with and sustaining arguments and solving problems within their field of study

Students must have the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (usually within their field of study) in order to make judgments that include reflections on pertinent social, scientific or ethical issues

Students must be able to convey information, ideas, problems and solutions to both an expert and non-expert audience

Students must have developed the learning skills needed to undertake further study with a high degree of independence

General Skills

To develop the skill of responsible, critical, reflective, analytical and synthetic thought.

To develop creativity and enterprising spirit in search of added value.

To be able to work efficiently as a member and as the head of a team in multicultural and/or multidisciplinary environments.

To develop habits of oral and written communication in order to convey one's attitudes and feelings.

To develop professional skills such as humility in the workplace, consistency in practice, tidiness and discipline, objective self-criticism and the spirit of achievement.

To develop the professional skills involved in risk forecasting, decision making and problem solving.

To recognise the importance of the social and environment elements of one's professional and business activity and of the need for a professional code of ethics.

To assume and be familiar with the principles of performing management duties at department, project and company level in the hotel and catering sectors.

To be able to apply the theory and knowledge acquired to real situations and practical actions.

To analyse and summarise the main ideas and contents of all types of texts, discover their theories and the issues they pose and critically judge their form and contents in terms of both the texts and the underlying rhetoric.

To consider the activities related to the profession from an international viewpoint and develop attitudes of interest, respect and dialogue with other nationalities, cultures and religions in search of the truth.

To adopt an attitude of intellectual eagerness, scientific interest and the search for knowledge and truth in all professional and personal undertakings.

Specific skills

To be able to apply and integrate the knowledge acquired into the meeting of objectives through a research or work project in the sector.
