SUBJECT DESCRIPTION

In this course, students learn the key aspects of design applied to objects, environments, events or spaces, the common feature of which is that they are designed to last just a few hours, days or weeks.

Students are, in turn, expected not only to be professional in the design of temporary spaces, but also to be creative when doing so.

SKILLS

Basic Skills

Students must have demonstrated knowledge and understanding in an area of study that is founded on general secondary education. Moreover, the area of study is typically at a level that includes certain aspects implying knowledge at the forefront of its field of study, albeit supported by advanced textbooks

Students must be able to apply their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional manner and possess skills that can typically be demonstrated by coming up with and sustaining arguments and solving problems within their field of study

Students must have the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (usually within their field of study) in order to make judgments that include reflections on pertinent social, scientific or ethical issues

Students must be able to convey information, ideas, problems and solutions to both an expert and non-expert audience

Students must have developed the learning skills needed to undertake further study with a high degree of independence

General Skills

To have the ability to work as an independent and self-sufficient visual artist in creative practice and the exhibition of a work of art, with extensive knowledge of artistic expression and its means.

To have the ability to conceive, plan, prepare, organise, manage and mediate visual information.

To have the ability to master state-of-the-art multimedia technologies that can enrich the experimental field of artistic creation as well as those of leisure, entertainment and, by extension, audio-visual communication in the context of contemporary culture.

To have the ability to be intellectually curious professionals who avoid weak, ineffectual thought and who aspire to improve modern culture by conveying values founded on a search for the truth, good and beauty.

To form a part of the professional world as a new creator, carrying out artistic works, programmes and projects for production and presentation in all kinds of formats and cultural spaces.

Specific skills

To possess an understanding of the various ways and means regarding the transportation, storage and exhibition of works of art.

To conduct, organise and manage innovative art projects.

To carry out and integrate artistic projects in broader contexts.

To prepare a suitable presentation for art projects.

To possess aesthetic sensitiveness.
