SKILLS

Basic Skills

Students must have demonstrated knowledge and understanding in an area of study that is founded on general secondary education. Moreover, the area of study is typically at a level that includes certain aspects implying knowledge at the forefront of its field of study, albeit supported by advanced textbooks

Students must be able to apply their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional manner and possess skills that can typically be demonstrated by coming up with and sustaining arguments and solving problems within their field of study

Students must have the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (usually within their field of study) in order to make judgments that include reflections on pertinent social, scientific or ethical issues

Students must be able to convey information, ideas, problems and solutions to both an expert and non-expert audience

Students must have developed the learning skills needed to undertake further study with a high degree of independence

General Skills

To develop the ability to carry out informative duties as a director or press editor in any traditional or electronic media format, either as a freelancer, employee or through self-employment schemes.

To develop the ability to act as the leader of institutional communication, as the leader of communication management in an organisation or as a website manager, content editor or communication consultant.

To learn how to acquire knowledge: to understand the dynamics of personal development through skills in communication, research, critical and creative thought, consideration and execution of action plans, and teamwork.

Specific skills

Acquire the ability to express oneself fluently and efficiently in English in order to transmit messages and information in that language.

To use the English language for professional development in an international context.

Analyse and appreciate the key ideas and content of texts in English; to discover the ideas, issues and messages incorporated within them and to make critical judgements about their form and content.
