SUBJECT DESCRIPTION

This subject contributes to the basic training of future teachers by providing knowledge of both educational processes and how to implement them. Knowledge and mastery of these processes and of the educational programmes upon which they are based allows for a process of teaching and learning based on the natural evolution of children and of their environment.

SKILLS

Basic Skills

Students must have demonstrated knowledge and understanding in an area of study that is founded on general secondary education. Moreover, the area of study is typically at a level that includes certain aspects implying knowledge at the forefront of its field of study, albeit supported by advanced textbooks

Students must be able to apply their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional manner and possess skills that can typically be demonstrated by coming up with and sustaining arguments and solving problems within their field of study

Students must have the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (usually within their field of study) in order to make judgments that include reflections on pertinent social, scientific or ethical issues

Students must be able to convey information, ideas, problems and solutions to both an expert and non-expert audience

Students must have developed the learning skills needed to undertake further study with a high degree of independence

General Skills

To reflect on classroom practices to innovate and improve teaching duties. To acquire habits and skills for independent, cooperative learning and to foster this learning process among pupils.

To develop analytical, synthetic, reflective, critical, theoretical and practical thought.

To develop abilities for interpersonal and intercultural communication.

To promote and encourage learning in early childhood, from a comprehensive, inclusive perspective encompassing the various cognitive, emotional, psychomotor and volitional dimensions.

To be aware of the educational implications of information and communication technologies, particularly television, during early childhood.

Specific skills

To understand the educational and learning processes in children aged 0-6 years, in the family, social and school contexts.

To be familiar with developments in evolutionary early childhood psychology in pupils aged 0-3 and 3-6 years.

To recognise the identity of each stage and its cognitive, psychomotor, communicative, social and affective characteristics.

To be familiar with the pedagogical dimension of interaction with peers and adults and to be able to promote participation in group activities, cooperative work and individual effort.
